

Brunna – Litla combination

-Sea run Arctic char and Brown trout-

If you are looking for a chance to come in contact with Iceland's best trout and char fishing the north of Iceland is the place to go. Ever since the DVD – The Source – Iceland – was published we have had a great deal of interest into fishing for sea run Arctic char. We've researched the rivers of Iceland to find the best quality of river for sea run char and now we've found what we believe to be one of the best, the Brunna River.

The Litla River has proven to be one of the best brown trout rivers in Iceland and is growing in popularity. The Litla River offers both great brown trout fishing and fantastic char fishing for resident char that live in the river and the lake that the river flows from.

The Litla River and Brunna River are a mere 20 kilometers from one another which make them perfect for a two river combo. What is even more exciting is that for 2012 there will be flights from Reykjavik to Husavik making the rivers only 90 minutes from Reykjavik.

In 2012 we are offering packaged trips to these two rivers with roundtrip flights from Reykjavik to Husavik.

About:

A perfect combination for brown trout and char. The Brunna is famous for strong runs of sea run char and the Litla is famous for it's big brown trout and Arctic char. Rivers are located close to one another and offer diverse conditions as well as breathtaking surroundings in the northern part of Iceland's volcanic belt that runs across the country.

Guides are experienced and the food prepared is made from local ingredients. The accommodation is very clean and comfortable with made up beds and a hot tub at the Litla lodge.

This is prime time fishing for the runs of Char on Brunna River. These dates also offer high likelihood of weather conditions for dry fly fishing on both rivers. Fishing in Lake Skjalftavatn is an option while fishing Litla. The lake offers fishing for monstrous brown trout and char and is an adventure in itself.
